THRID AMENDED COMPLAINT

COME NOW Plaintiffs, Arthur Copeland, David Brandon Spurgin, Brad McGahey, Brandon Mills, Nathan Taylor, and Jason Baker (“Proposed Class Representatives”), and on behalf of all those similarly situated (“Putative Class Members”), and further, the remaining Plaintiffs, on their individual behalves, (collectively with Proposed Class Representatives hereinafter “Named Plaintiffs”)(Named Plaintiffs and Proposed Class Members collectively referred to as “Plaintiffs”) by and through their counsel of record, pursuant to Order of the Court (Dkt. 180), and for their Third Amended Complaint against the above-listed Defendants, state as follows:

I. INTRODUCTION

1. Defendants conspired to profit from a vulnerable workforce under the guise of providing alcohol and drug counseling and rehabilitation services to Named Plaintiffs and Putative Class Members.

2. Named Plaintiffs performed taxing, manual labor for Defendants in poultry and pet food processing plants.

3. Defendants failed to pay Named Plaintiffs and Putative Class Members any compensation whatsoever for the work they performed, in violation of state and federal law.

4. Instead, Defendants only “payment” to Named Plaintiffs and Putative Class Members consisted of daily bologna sandwiches and a bunkbed in a cramped, unsanitary dorm room. In short, Defendants established and maintained a labor camp designed to generate profit and business advantages based on the exploitation of vulnerable young men.

5. Defendants’ conduct constitutes unjust enrichment, and violations of the Fair Labor Standards Act (“FLSA”), the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act (“RICO”), the Oklahoma Protection of Labor Act, the Oklahoma Minimum Wage Act, Arkansas minimum wage and overtime law, Missouri minimum wage and overtime law, Oklahoma’s Human Trafficking statutes, and the Trafficking Victims Protection Reauthorization Act (“TVPRA”).

6. Named Plaintiffs, individually, and Proposed Class Representatives, on behalf of themselves and the Putative Class Members, seek to recover all unpaid minimum and overtime wages as a class action pursuant to Rule 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. Proposed Class Representatives also seek equitable relief on behalf of current and future employees of Defendants to prohibit such illegal conduct in the future.

7. Named Plaintiffs also seek to recover, for their own individual behalf, all unpaid minimum and overtime wages and for the full value of their losses, including but not limited to personal injury, pain and suffering, emotional distress, punitive damages, and other losses suffered as a proximate result of Defendants' conduct, and reasonable attorneys' fees and costs.

II. PARTIES, JURISDICTION & VENUE

8. Named Plaintiffs and the Putative Class Members are current or former employees of Defendants who work or worked at Simmons Foods, Inc.'s ("Simmons") and/or Simmons Pet Food, Inc.'s ("Simmons Pet Food") facilities in Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Missouri while residing at Christian Alcoholics and Addicts in Recovery's ("C.A.A.I.R." or "CAAIR") dormitories, located in Jay, Oklahoma .

9. Plaintiff Arthur Copeland ("Copeland") is a resident of Oklahoma and was a resident at CAAIR from January 11, 2016 to July 14, 2016. Copeland seeks to be named a class representative for the Rule 23 Class.

10. Plaintiff David Brandon Spurgin ("Spurgin") is a resident of Oklahoma and was a resident at CAAIR from approximately March 20, 2014 to September 15, 2014. Spurgin seeks to be named a class representative for the Rule 23 Class.

11. Plaintiff Brad McGahey ("McGahey") is a resident of Oklahoma and was a resident at CAAIR from approximately April 2010 to June 2010. McGahey seeks to be named a class representative for the Rule 23 Class.

12. Plaintiff Brandon Mills (“Mills”) is a resident of Oklahoma and was a resident at CAAIR from February 2017 to November 2017. While at CAAIR, Mills worked at Simmons Foods in Decatur, AR. Mills seeks to be named a class representative for the Rule 23 Class.

13. Plaintiff Nathan Taylor (“Taylor”) is a resident of Oklahoma and was a CAAIR client from February 2017 to October 2017. While at CAAIR, Taylor worked for Simmons Foods in Southwest City, MO. Taylor seeks to be named a class representative for the Rule 23 Class.

14. Plaintiff Jason Baker (“Mr. Baker”) is a resident of Oklahoma and was a resident at CAAIR from February 29, 2016 to November 2016. While at CAAIR, Mr. Baker worked at Simmons Foods in Jay, OK from approximately September 2016 to November 2016 in the night sanitation department. For the remainder of his time at CAAIR, Mr. Baker was forced to work at other private businesses in Oklahoma and on the CAAIR grounds in Jay, OK. Baker seeks to be named a class representative for the Rule 23 Class.

16. Defendant Christian Alcoholics & Addicts in Recovery, Inc. (“C.A.A.I.R.” or “CAAIR”) is an Oklahoma corporation, registered as a charitable organization, with its principal place of business in Jay, Oklahoma. C.A.A.I.R. does substantial business in this judicial district.

17. Defendant Simmons Foods, Inc. (“Simmons”) is an Arkansas, for-profit business corporation headquartered in Siloam Springs, Arkansas. Simmons Foods does substantial business in Oklahoma and in this judicial district. Simmons Foods operates a processing plant in Fairland, Oklahoma, and contracts for labor with C.A.A.I.R. in Oklahoma. Simmons Foods also operates processing plants in Southwest City, Missouri, and Decatur, Arkansas.

18. Defendant Simmons Pet Food, Inc. (“Simmons Pet Food”) is an Arkansas for-profit business corporation headquartered in Siloam Springs, Arkansas. Simmons Pet Food does substantial business in Oklahoma and in this judicial district. Simmons Pet Food maintains operations in Fort Gibson, Oklahoma, and contracts for labor with C.A.A.I.R. in Oklahoma. Simmons Pet Food also operates a processing plant in Decatur, Arkansas.

19. Defendant Janet Wilkerson is a natural person. Ms. Wilkerson is a co-founder of C.A.A.I.R. and is C.A.A.I.R.’s chief executive officer.

20. Defendant Don Wilkerson is a natural person. Mr. Wilkerson is a co-founder of C.A.A.I.R. and is C.A.A.I.R.’s vice president of operations.

21. Defendant Louise Dunham is a natural person. Ms. Dunham is a co-founder of C.A.A.I.R. and is C.A.A.I.R.’s vice president of finance.

22. Defendant Jim Lovell is a natural person. Mr. Lovell is C.A.A.I.R.’s vice president of program management.

23. Jurisdiction over Plaintiffs’ FLSA Claims is based on 29 U.S.C. § 216(b) and 28 U.S.C. § 1331.

24. Subject Matter Jurisdiction is also conferred on this Court by 28 U.S.C. §1337 and over Plaintiffs' federal law claims pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1331 and 29 U.S.C. § 201, et seq.

25. This Court has supplemental subject matter jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 1367 for all claims asserted under the laws of Oklahoma, Missouri, and Arkansas (the "State Law Claims") because these claims are part of the same case and controversy as the federal claims; the federal and State Law Claims derive from a common nucleus of operative facts; the State Law Claims will not substantially dominate over the federal claims; and exercising supplemental jurisdiction will be in the interests of judicial economy, convenience, fairness, and comity.

26. Independently, this Court has original subject matter jurisdiction pursuant to the Class Action Fairness Act, 28 U.S.C. § 1332, in that the estimated damages involved in this action will exceed $5,000,000, there are believed to be more than 100 Proposed Class Members in total, some of whom reside in different states from at least one of the Defendants.

27. This Court has specific personal jurisdiction for all claims against the Defendants because the Defendants have availed themselves of the privileges of conducting business in Oklahoma and a substantial portion of the events giving rise to this suit, including the contracting and transmission of unlawful labor, occurred in Oklahoma and resulted from Defendants' contacts with this forum.

28. This Court has general personal jurisdiction for all claims against the Defendants because their affiliations with the State of Oklahoma are sufficiently continuous and systematic to render the Defendants essentially at home in this state. Further, this Court has general person jurisdiction over Defendants C.A.A.I.R., Janet Wilkerson, Don Wilkerson, Rodney Dunham, Louise Dunham, and Jim Lovell because C.A.A.I.R. is incorporated and has its principal place of business in Oklahoma, and because the individually named Defendants are residents of Oklahoma.

29. Venue is proper in this Court pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1391(b)(2) because a substantial part of the events, acts, and or omissions giving rise to the claims asserted in this suit occurred in this District.

30. Venue is also proper in this Court pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b)(1) because Defendants C.A.A.I.R., Simmons Foods, and Simmons Pet Food are subject to this Court's personal jurisdiction and therefore reside in this District, and because defendant Janet Wilkerson, Don Wilkerson, Rodney Dunham, Louise Dunham, and Jim Lovell are natural persons who reside in this District.

III. FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

31. C.A.A.I.R. holds itself out as a long-term residential drug and alcohol recovery program. In fact, however, C.A.A.I.R., is not certified as a treatment provider by the Oklahoma Department of Mental Health and Substance Abuse Services ("ODMHSAS"), and C.A.A.I.R. provides no meaningful treatment for its residents.

32. 43A Okl. St. § 3-415(A) provides that only facilities certified by the Oklahoma Board of Mental Health and Substance Abuse Services ("OBMHSAS")¹ may provide alcohol and drug treatment and rehabilitation services.² C.A.A.I.R. does not meet, and has never met, the requirements for such certification, and provides virtually nothing in the way of legitimate treatment services for its residents, which it calls "clients."

33. In fact, drug and alcohol treatment was never the intended purpose of C.A.A.I.R. Rather, C.A.A.I.R. was started by Defendant Janet Wilkerson, a former executive at Peterson

² Similarly, in its Adult Treatment Court Manual, promulgated pursuant to section 471.10(B) of the Oklahoma Drug Court Act (22 Okl. St. § 471, et seq.), the ODMHSAS provides that treatment agencies utilized by the state's drug courts must be contracted with the ODMHSAS for treatment or be certified by the ODMHSAS.

Farms, Inc. (“Peterson”), a chicken processing company acquired by Simmons in 2008; by Rodney Dunnam, also a former executive at Peterson; and by Louise Dunnam, a purported HR specialist. None of these founders had any background in drug and alcohol treatment. C.A.A.I.R.’s purpose was and is to provide income to itself and its founders while providing cheap labor to third-party agricultural interests affiliated with C.A.A.I.R. C.A.A.I.R.’s business model is to locate and control vulnerable persons, many of whom are desperately in need of meaningful treatment; compel them to work fulltime for Simmons Foods, Simmons Pet Food, and other corporations with whom C.A.A.I.R. contracts; and keep all of their wages. C.A.A.I.R. calls this forced labor “treatment” while denying its patients any semblance of actual psychiatric or medical care.

34. Many residents arrive at C.A.A.I.R. by way of Oklahoma’s drugs courts. This stream of forced laborers is procured by C.A.A.I.R.’s uniform misrepresentations that it is a legitimate treatment facility. Once clients are sent to C.A.A.I.R. for supposed treatment, C.A.A.I.R. immediately denies them any treatment and instead sends them to work for private corporations. The work performed for these third-parties, including Simmons Foods and Simmons Pet Food, is grueling and frequently dangerous. The Putative Class Members, including Named Plaintiffs, who comprise C.A.A.I.R.’s residents regularly work over 40 hours a week at Simmons Foods and Simmons Pet Food facilities. They receive no wages for this work, let alone premium wages for overtime worked. Instead, the Simmons Defendants make donations to C.A.A.I.R. in return for the free labor and/or pays C.A.A.I.R. a discounted rate for the work performed, and C.A.A.I.R. keeps all such compensation.

35. Plaintiff Arthur Copeland (“Copeland”) was led to believe, through the mails of the United States, in a letter dated January 8, 2016, that C.A.A.I.R. was a drug and alcohol program offered through Oklahoma's "drug court". Based upon this misrepresentation, Copeland agreed to enter the C.A.A.I.R. program, for at least a year, as a condition of probation and in lieu of serving prison time. At no time prior to his agreement to enter the C.A.A.I.R. program, was it disclosed to Copeland that C.A.A.I.R. was a work camp where he would be required, by threat of incarceration, to provide free chicken processing services for Simmons without pay. Upon arriving at C.A.A.I.R., Copeland was not allowed to have any contact with family for the first 30 days. He was not allowed to have visits with his family for several months. Copeland quickly learned that C.A.A.I.R. was not a drug and alcohol rehabilitation program, but rather a work camp program, under which he was required to provide free labor for Simmons Foods under constant threat of incarceration. Copeland worked on what was called the "live hang line" at Simmons Foods. As part of this work, he was expected to hang 60-62 chickens per minute. He worked full time on the live hand line in a totally dark room except for black light. Copeland was eventually "promoted" to position of sharpening knives and scissors of other workers who slaughtered the chickens. Copeland suffered a work-related fall at Simmons Foods, which caused serious injury and pain and suffering. Despite his injury and need for physician care, Copeland was threatened with return to prison if he was unable to work. Contrary to the representations upon which he relied, during his time in C.A.A.I.R., Copeland never received any professional drug or alcohol counseling/treatment. Rather, he was simply part of a full-time work camp labor force who was expected to work full time for Simmons Food, without compensation, and with threat of incarceration if he did not complete the one-year "program." Copeland worked for Simmons Foods through C.A.A.I.R.'s work camp for several months, without pay. Copeland routinely worked over 40 hours per workweek at Simmons Foods. Without any professional rehabilitation services, Copeland, who suffers from drug addiction, relapsed and was sent to prison after seven months in C.A.A.I.R., with nothing to show for his involuntary servitude.

36. Plaintiff David Brandon Spurgin (“Spurgin”) was led to believe, through the mails of the United States, that C.A.A.I.R. was a drug and alcohol program offered through Oklahoma’s “drug court”. Based upon this misrepresentation, Spurgin agreed to enter the C.A.A.I.R. program, for at least a year, as a condition of probation and in lieu of serving prison time. At no time prior to his agreement to enter the C.A.A.I.R., was it disclosed to Spurgin that C.A.A.I.R. was a work camp where he would be required, by threat of incarceration, to provide chicken processing services for Simmons Foods without pay. Upon arriving at C.A.A.I.R., Spurgin was not allowed to have any contact with family for the first 30 days. He was not allowed to have visits with his family for several months. Spurgin quickly learned that C.A.A.I.R. was not a drug and alcohol rehabilitation program, but rather a work camp program, under which he was required to provide free labor for Simmons Foods under constant threat of incarceration. Spurgin worked full-time at the Simmons Foods chicken processing plants without compensation under threat of incarceration. Spurgin routinely worked over 40 hours per workweek at Simmons Foods. Spurgin was working in a chicken processing plant one night in 2014 when a metal door crashed down on his head, damaging his spine and leaving him with chronic pain, according to medical records. C.A.A.I.R. filed for workers’ compensation on his behalf and fraudulently pocketed the $4,500 in insurance payments. Spurgin received nothing. Three years later, Spurgin is still in pain and can no longer hold a full-time job.

37. Plaintiff Brad (“McGahey”) was led to believe, through the mails of the United States, that C.A.A.I.R. was a drug and alcohol rehabilitation program offered through Oklahoma’s court system. Though McGahey was not addicted to anything, he was led to believe that this “rehabilitation” program was his only alternative to serving prison time for violating the terms of probation for a receipt of stolen property plea deal. Based upon this misrepresentation, McGahey agreed to enter the C.A.A.I.R. program, for at least a year, as a condition of probation and in lieu of serving prison time. At no time prior to his agreement to enter the C.A.A.I.R., was it disclosed to McGahey that C.A.A.I.R. was a work camp where he would be required, by threat of incarceration, to provide chicken processing services for Simmons Foods without pay. Upon arriving at C.A.A.I.R., McGahey was not allowed to have any contact with family for the first 30 days. He was not allowed to have visits with his family for several months. McGahey quickly learned that C.A.A.I.R. was not a rehabilitation program, but rather a work camp program, under which he was required to provide labor for Simmons Foods, without pay, under constant threat of incarceration. Beginning in 2010, at Simmons Foods, McGahey first went to work in evisceration, suctioning guts and blood out of slaughtered chickens speeding past him on metal hooks. Then he became a grader, arranging raw breasts, thighs and legs into orderly piles as they moved up a conveyor belt to packaging. It was monotonous work. During his time working in the processing plants, if McGahey got hurt or worked too slowly, his bosses threatened him with prison. McGahey routinely worked over 40 hours per workweek at Simmons Foods. McGahey was never paid a dime while working manual labor for the benefit of C.A.A.I.R. and Simmons Foods.

38. On May 27, 2010, three months into his time at C.A.A.I.R., while working at the Simmons processing plant, and while attempting to help an injured co-worker, McGahey’s hand got stuck in the conveyor belt. McGahey suffered a “severe crush injury.” The machine smashed his hand, breaking several bones and nearly severing a tendon in his wrist. When he finally yanked his wrist free, his hand was bent completely backward. One of C.A.A.I.R.’s top managers picked McGahey up at the plant and drove him to the local hospital. Doctors took X-rays of McGahey's hand, gave him a splint and ordered him not to work. After returning to the C.A.A.I.R. work camp, McGahey suffered in pain, and expected not to work in compliance with the doctor's orders. However, C.A.A.I.R. mandated that he work while injured. The C.A.A.I.R. administrators called McGahey lazy and accused him of hurting himself on purpose to avoid working. C.A.A.I.R. told him that he had to go back to work – either at Simmons or around the campus until his hand healed, which wouldn't count toward his one-year sentence. “You can either work or you can go to prison,” a C.A.A.I.R. administrator told him. McGahey's hand is permanently injured. In 2012, McGahey went to court for workers' compensation. C.A.A.I.R. fought him every step of the way. In court in 2012, the program's attorneys argued that McGahey's recurring symptoms weren't the result of the accident in the chicken plant. Suffering in constant pain and from depression, McGahey is now addicted to pain medication.

39. Plaintiff Brandon Mills (“Mills”) was led to believe, by his probation officer, that CAAIR was a legitimate rehabilitation program. Based upon this misrepresentation, Mr. Mills agreed to enter the CAAIR. Program as a condition of probation and in lieu of serving prison time. At no time prior to his agreement to enter the CAAIR program was it disclosed to Mr. Mills that CAAIR was a work camp where he would be required, by threat of incarceration, to provide chicken processing services for Simmons Foods without pay. Beginning on February 1, 2017, Mr. Mills worked at Simmons Foods in Decatur, AR in evisceration, suctioning guts and blood out of slaughtered chickens speeding past him on metal hooks. His job title was EVIS Tech. He worked 40-45 hours per week at Simmons Foods. On the weekends, CAAIR employees forced Mr. Mills (and other CAAIR clients) to perform “community service,” which amounted to various manual labor jobs, such as yard work, construction, or repairs, either on the CAAIR campus or at the homes of CAAIR employees. On one occasion, Mr. Mills complained about the compulsory “community service,” and CAAIR dorm manager Shawn Jacobs replied that if Mr. Mills didn’t like the work, “he could just go to jail.”

40. On at least one occasion, Mr. Mills complained about the working conditions at Simmons, and even filled out an incident report detailing his complaints. CAAIR considered extending Mr. Mills’ sentence solely for complaining, but ultimately decided not to and simply told him to keep his mouth shut. While at CAAIR, Mr. Mills severely injured his ankle. CAAIR employees told him to put ice on the ankle and forced him to go to work at Simmons. After his shift ended, Mr. Mills could hardly walk due to the swelling and pain in his ankle. Due to the obvious severity of the injury, CAAIR sent Mr. Mills to a doctor in Siloam Springs, AR and a chiropractic center in Gentry, AR. It was determined that Mr. Mills had torn two tendons in his ankle. Instead of permitting Mr. Mills to receive badly-needed treatment for his serious injury, CAAIR just allowed Mr. Mills to take two weeks off from work at Simmons, but CAAIR did not count those weeks towards Mr. Mills’ court-mandated sentence. Mr. Mills’ family brought him an ankle brace since CAAIR refused to provide medical treatment. Mr. Mills ultimately left CAAIR in November 2017 because he could not continue to perform strenuous labor seven days a week with such a debilitating ankle injury, from which he still suffers complications. Once Mr. Mills left CAAIR, he entered the Northeastern Oklahoma Council on Alcoholism (“NOCA”) program, where he stayed for ten months. He is now drug and alcohol free due only to his own determination.

41. Plaintiff Nathan Taylor (“Taylor”) entered the CAAIR program in February 2017 and left the program in October 2017. During that time, he worked at Simmons Foods in Southwest City, MO in the evisceration department, where he removed the guts of chickens. Mr.

Taylor experienced an issue with one of his teeth while at the CAAIR program for which he was not permitted to seek dental treatment. As a result, the issue worsened to the point that the tooth required extraction. CAAIR took Mr. Taylor to a dentist for the extraction, and when he returned to CAAIR, he was punished for missing work and forced to scrub boards at CAAIR all night before having to go back to work at Simmons the following morning on hardly any sleep.

42. Plaintiff Stanley Shane Alexander (“Alexander”) entered the CAAIR program on October 23, 2012 for a brief time until November 2012. He then returned to CAAIR on May 1, 2013 and was there until he left the program on November 26, 2013. Mr. Alexander worked at the Simmons plant in Southwest City, MO in the meat bay as a “meat receiver.” He cleaned the backs of semi-trucks that contained chicken. Mr. Alexander became extremely ill on two occasions while he was at CAAIR with what is known as the “chicken flu.” Mr. Alexander also suffers from various mental illnesses, for which he was provided absolutely no treatment while he was at CAAIR.

43. Plaintiff Jason Baker (“Baker”) was convinced to join the CAAIR program by Jim Lovell in February 2016 and stayed at the program until November 2016, when he was unjustly expelled from the program by Jim Lovell for allegedly refusing to take a urinary analysis (“UA”) test, which allegation Mr. Baker maintains was completely false. Mr. Baker worked at the Simmons plant in Jay, OK for approximately two months in the night sanitation department. He also worked at various other private businesses at CAAIR’s demand.

44. Plaintiff Craigory Blue (“Blue”) entered the CAAIR program pursuant to a court order on October 13, 2013 and was there until he graduated on October 13, 2014. Mr. Blue worked for Simmons Foods in Southwest City, MO hanging chickens. Mr. Blue worked under constant threats of incarceration if he didn’t follow every order given by CAAIR and Simmons employees, and therefore he kept his head down and made no complaints during his time at CAAIR, despite being forced to live and work in unsanitary conditions.

45. Plaintiff Cody Bumpas (“Bumpas”) entered the CAAIR program in January 2013 upon the recommendation of his probation officer, who told Mr. Bumpas that he would be working on a chicken farm and would “make a little money,” a claim that was obviously false. Mr. Bumpas stayed at CAAIR until July 2014, and worked at Simmons Foods in Southwest City, MO. He hung chickens and performed maintenance. Mr. Bumpas was forced to work at Simmons for 16 months in exchange for no wages, and his family was forced to sell personal belongings just to be able to afford groceries. The Bumpas family lost their home due to Mr. Bumpas not being allowed to earn wages.

46. Plaintiff Ryan Cole (“Cole”) was at CAAIR from December 20, 2012 to June 26, 2013. He had been incarcerated in the Marshall County Jail when Jim Lovell recruited him to CAAIR. Lovell claimed that if Mr. Cole entered the CAAIR program, his prison sentence would be reduced. While at CAAIR, Mr. Cole worked for Simmons Foods in Southwest City, MO in the re-hang and live hang departments. While working at Simmons, Mr. Cole suffered severe burns when acid fell on his head. He was treated by a nurse and forced to return to work. He also contracted a Staph infection and was ordered to not work for 30 days while he recovered, but CAAIR ordered him back to work at Simmons after about two weeks. Mr. Cole was ultimately kicked out of the CAAIR program after six months for refusing to allege that another CAAIR client was selling drugs to other clients. Mr. Cole did not know whether the client in question was actually selling drugs, so he stayed silent, against the wishes of Jim Lovell, who then sent Mr. Cole to jail, where he spent four years due to previous charges.

47. Plaintiff Caleb Byrd (“Byrd”) entered the CAAIR program on April 28, 2016 upon the recommendation of Clancy Davis, a friend of Jim Lovell and Don and Janet Wilkerson, who worked for Addiction Behavior and Health. Mr. Byrd remained at CAAIR until he graduated on April 29, 2017. He worked in the meat bay of the Southwest City, MO Simmons plant and spent his entire shifts washing out large bins that contained chicken guts and bones. Mr. Byrd's infant son tragically passed away while Mr. Byrd was at CAAIR. Mr. Byrd was allowed leave for one day to attend to his son's funeral services, and then was immediately sent back to CAAIR to work for Simmons. CAAIR did not offer Mr. Byrd any type of counseling after his son's death, which resulted in Mr. Byrd falling into a deep depression.

48. Plaintiff Steven Cook ("Cook") was at CAAIR from October 19, 2012 until he graduated in July 2013. He worked in the Southwest City, MO Simmons plant stacking frozen boxes of chicken. Mr. Cook injured his shoulder while stacking heavy boxes of chicken, but was denied any medical treatment for the injury. He still experiences problems with his shoulder to this day as a result of the untreated injury he suffered while working for Simmons.

49. Plaintiff Joe Cotrone ("Cotrone") was at CAAIR from May 31, 2011 to approximately September 2011. He initially worked for Simmons Foods in Jay, OK on the salvage line before being transferred to the Southwest City, MO plant, where he cleaned out trucks that had contained unused chicken parts. Mr. Cotrone became extremely ill while working for Simmons and had to miss three days of work due to a temperature that reached 103 degrees. He was fired from Simmons for missing work, and was therefore discharged from CAAIR. He was told he had ten minutes to find a ride and was then sent walking down the highway with his belongings in hand.

50. Plaintiff Ryan Dorland ("Dorland") was at CAAIR from April 17, 2014 until he graduated on July 7, 2014. Mr. Dorland worked at Simmons Pet Foods in Decatur, AR stacking

50-pound bags of dog food. After four months of stacking bags of dog food, Mr. Dorland was promoted to a position where he operated a machine to fill bags with dog food. Mr. Dorland was an excellent employee, as evidenced by his promotion, and often filled in for paid Simmons employees when they missed a shift for some reason. Mr. Dorland also sprained his ankle while he was at CAAIR, but was simply given an ankle brace and sent back to work.

51. Plaintiff Patrick Doyle (“Doyle”) was at CAAIR from November 2014 to August 2015, when he graduated. Mr. Doyle worked at the Simmons plant in Southwest City, MO, and was an excellent employee. After stacking boxes of frozen chicken for three months, he was promoted to an intake operator, and filled out inventory forms on a computer. Despite being a model employee at Simmons, Mr. Doyle was frequently harassed by CAAIR employees, such as Jim Lovell and Gary Repuddle. On one occasion, Mr. Doyle was falsely accused of using alcohol, and CAAIR charged him $50 for a laboratory test, which Mr. Doyle passed.

52. Plaintiff Kenneth Gentry (“Gentry”) was at CAAIR from December 9, 2009 until he graduated on September 15, 2010. 54. Plaintiff Michael Greenhaw (“Greenhaw”) was at CAAIR from September 18, 2012 until he graduated in September 2013. He performed janitorial duties at the Southwest City, MO Simmons plant. On M. Greenhaw's first day at CAAIR, CAAIR employee George Maynor told the clients that they were "criminals first." In addition to his janitorial duties at Simmons, M. Greenhaw was forced to do yard work and other strenuous manual labor duties on the CAAIR grounds. He suffered severe toothaches during his time at CAAIR and after complaining for several months, he was finally sent to a dentist in Grove, OK to get a tooth pulled.

55. Plaintiff Clinton Harms ("Harms") was at CAAIR from October 2010 until he January 2011. Mr. Harms worked for Simmons Foods in Southwest City, MO sorting chicken parts. He severely injured his wrist on the job at Simmons, and was discharged from the CAAIR program because the injury rendered him unable to work. Mr. Harms was forced to go to the Tulsa County Courthouse with no advance notice to beg his drug court judge to place him in another program so he would not have to go to jail. Mr. Harms ultimately was allowed to enter the Oxford House.

56. Plaintiff Michael Harper ("Harper") was at CAAIR from September 2013 to September 2014. He worked at Simmons Pet Foods in Decatur, AR stacking 50-pound bags of dog food and occasionally operating the fork lifts. Mr. Harper never received any drug or alcohol treatment or any other counseling while he was at CAAIR.

57. Plaintiff Michael Harrell ("Harrell") was at CAAIR from January 7, 2014 until he graduated on February 9, 2015. He worked at the Simmons Pet Foods plant in Siloam Springs, AR for three months packaging dog treats until the plant closed. After that, Mr. Harrell worked in the sanitation department at the Simmons plant in Jay, OK. Mr. Harrell suffered from a severe bout of pneumonia due to the conditions at CAAIR. Further, he made a complaint about the conditions when he had only a week left of his sentence, and in response, CAAIR added 30 days to his sentence.

58. Plaintiff Jarret Jones (“Jones”) was at CAAIR from December 2015 until he graduated on December 12, 2016. He worked at Simmons Foods in the evisceration department, where he removed the guts from chickens.

59. Plaintiff Ikaika Kamai (“Kamai”) was at CAAIR from July 2015 until he graduated in May 2016. He worked at Simmons Foods in Decatur, AR as a shoulder cutter, where he cut chickens on overnight shifts. Mr. Kamai suffered injuries to his hands from cutting chicken for 8-10 hours straight in freezing cold rooms. He also became ill with the flu while at CAAIR but was forced to work at Simmons while he was sick.

60. Plaintiff Marquis Luckey (“Luckey”) was at CAAIR from July 1, 2015 to August 30, 2015. He worked at Simmons Pet Foods in Decatur, AR stacking 50-pound bags of dog food. Mr. Luckey complained that he was unable to perform his duties because he had screws in his ankle and could not stand and lift heavy bags of dog food for 12 hours straight. He was told that if he kept complaining, he would receive a three-month addition to his sentence. Unable to bear the pain in his ankle any longer, Mr. Luckey left CAAIR after two months.

61. Plaintiff Clinton Meyer (“Meyer”) was at CAAIR from June 23, 2017 to October 26, 2017. He worked at Simmons Foods in Decatur, AR on the salvage table. He worked at a conveyor belt that carried poultry that had been rejected by the USDA, picking various parts off the belt to be salvaged. While Mr. Meyer was at CAAIR, there was a bedbug infestation at the CAAIR dorms.

62. Plaintiff Jason Miqueli (“Miqueli”) was at CAAIR from August 2016 to May 2017. He worked at Simmons Foods in Southwest City, MO in the protein division cleaning the backs of trucks with acid and power washers. One day, while working at Simmons, a vat of acid spilled onto Mr. Miqueli. The rubber gloves that Simmons provided Mr. Miqueli were not capable of withstanding the acid, which resulted in Mr. Miqueli suffering severe burns to his hands, arms, and one of his legs. Mr. Miqueli still suffers from disabilities related to the accident and has multiple scars on his body. Two days before Mr. Miqueli was set to graduate from CAAIR, he was discharged for allegedly engaging in “horse-play,” which, in reality, consisted of another CAAIR client grabbing Mr. Miqueli’s shoulders from behind to congratulate him on almost completing the program. This unspeakably unjust event denied Mr. Miqueli the $1000 “graduation gift” from CAAIR and caused Mr. Miqueli to fall into a deep depression. Since he was expelled from CAAIR, Mr. Miqueli has struggled to maintain employment due to both his injuries and the mental anguish he suffered at CAAIR, which has caused him multiple relapses. Mr. Miqueli is currently homeless and was recently arrested for larceny, for which he pleaded guilty, as he was simply trying to keep himself alive. Plaintiff Dwayne Moss (“Moss”) was at CAAIR from July 19, 2012 until he graduated in April 2013. He worked at Simmons Foods in the salvage department as well as the “second processing” department, where he iced down chicken meat and packaged it. While working at Simmons. Mr. Moss began to suffer from stiff wrists because of the repetitive work he was forced to perform. He was denied the professional medical care that he requested, and instead given ibuprofen and told to “deal with [the pain].”

63. Plaintiff Shane O’Neal (“O’Neal”) was at CAAIR from December 30, 2014 to December 31, 2015. He worked at Simmons Pet Foods in Decatur, AR stacking 50-pound bags of dog food for about six months, until he was promoted to line operator, where he operated a machine that filled bags with dog food. Mr. O’Neal worked for 12 months in horrible conditions but never complained because he feared being sent to jail or having his sentence at CAAIR increased.

64. Plaintiff Travis Owens (“Owens”) was at CAAIR from June 2013 to March 2014.

He worked at Simmons Foods in Southwest City, MO on the millwright crew as an assistant to welders and painters. Mr. Owens never complained while he was at CAAIR, despite the horrible conditions, because he saw that complaining only resulted in punishment from CAAIR and/or Simmons.

65. Plaintiff Brian Pearson (“Pearson”) was at CAAIR from April 2014 to June 2014. A friend of his father’s told him that CAAIR was a rehab but Mr. Pearson had no idea that he would be going to a work camp where he would receive no wages. Mr. Pearson left CAAIR after approximately three months because he could not stand the conditions and was not facing a sentence of incarceration.

66. Plaintiff Thomas Rico (“Rico”) was at CAAIR from September 2014 until he graduated on July 31, 2016. Mr. Rico mostly worked at Simmons Pet Foods in Decatur, AR stacking 50-pound bags of dog food. On his days off, he was also forced to work at the Southwest City, MO Simmons plant hanging chickens. Mr. Rico was forced to work for 22 months for no wages, often working 50 or more hours per week.

67. Plaintiff Titus Staton (“Staton”) was at CAAIR from April 2016 until he graduated in April 2017. He worked at Simmons Foods in Decatur, AR trimming and pulling the guts out of chickens. Mr. Staton injured his elbow due to the repetitive nature of his work, but never received any medical treatment while at CAAIR. He still has issues with the injured elbow. Mr. Staton also contracted the “chicken flu” several times while working at Simmons through CAAIR and became violently ill and causing him significant distress.

68. Michael Welge ("Mr. Welge") entered the CAAIR program on April 12, 2013 through the McClain County Drug Court program until he graduated on April 16, 2014. Mr. Welge's drug court sentence was actually due to expire in January 2014, but CAAIR forced him to stay until April 2014. Mr. Welge worked on the sanitation crew in the Simmons plant in Decatur, AR, where he and his crew were tasked with cleaning the entire plant. While Mr. Welge resided at CAAIR, bedbugs infested the CAAIR dorms. CAAIR's response to the bedbugs was woefully inadequate and Mr. Welge and the other CAAIR clients at the time were forced to suffer numerous bites and were constantly anxious due to the bugs.

69. C.A.A.I.R.'s mistreatment of its residents does not stop with forced labor for no pay. When putative-class-member-workers are injured they are not provided with adequate, or often any, medical care and are instead ordered to work while injured. C.A.A.I.R. staff, as well as staff at Simmons Foods and Simmons Pet Food facilities, threaten to send the Putative Class Members to prison if their work is deemed unsatisfactory or if they complain that they cannot work due to injuries. C.A.A.I.R. even files workers compensation claims on behalf of its injured residents, and then keeps every penny paid for such claims. Defendant Wilkerson has openly admitted to this conduct, publicly stating: "That's the way it works." "Yes, we did keep [the workers compensation money of clients]," Wilkerson stated. "Right, wrong or indifferent, that's what happened."

70. Defendants are and were joint and co-employers of Plaintiffs and all C.A.A.I.R. residents because, inter alia, all Defendants direct, control, and supervise the work performed by these employees; these employees' work is an integral part of the Defendants' businesses; and the Defendants control the employment conditions of these employees.

71. Defendants acted in concert to engage in the conduct complained of herein by virtue of mutual arrangements and contracts to provide labor for the production of agricultural products for commerce, to withhold wages, and to hold Named Plaintiffs and all C.A.A.I.R. residents in involuntary servitude.

72. Defendant Wilkerson is chief executive officer of C.A.A.I.R., which is an enterprise engaged in and affecting interstate commerce by virtue of its provision of labor to Defendants Simmons Foods and Simmons Pet Food, which manufacture products for interstate commerce, and by virtue of its transportation of that labor across state lines. As C.A.A.I.R.'s CEO, defendant Wilkerson is employed by and is associated with C.A.A.I.R.. Further, as C.A.A.I.R.'s CEO, Ms. Wilkerson is responsible for devising and implementing C.A.A.I.R. policy, a fundamental and essential component of which is involuntary servitude, a racketeering activity under 18 U.S.C. § 1961. Defendant Wilkerson therefore conducts the affairs of C.A.A.I.R. through a pattern of racketeering activity, which is, in fact, the basis of C.A.A.I.R.'s entire business model.

73. Defendants C.A.A.I.R., Simmons Foods, and Simmons Pet Food conspire with Defendant Wilkerson to engage in this conduct by executing explicit agreements and contracts for the provision of involuntary labor, agreeing to withhold wages from C.A.A.I.R. residents, transmitting earned wages directly to C.A.A.I.R., receiving labor transported across state lines by C.A.A.I.R., and operating businesses which substantially rely on unpaid, unlawful labor.

74. The violations of law described herein were and are knowing, intentional, and willful. Defendants have engaged, and continue to engage, in the conduct alleged herein by systematic, calculated policy. Defendants are advised by sophisticated and informed legal counsel and human resources professionals who were, or should have been, aware of the legal requirements violated by the conduct alleged herein. Defendants therefore acted in knowing violation of the law.

All persons who, at any time from November 16, 2009 through the trial date, have performed work at any Simmons Foods or Simmons Pet Food facility in the state of Missouri while residing at C.A.A.I.R..

B. Propriety of Certification Under FRCP 23(a)

Numerosity

79. The Class likely includes between 800 and 1,500 Putative Class Members. The Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Missouri Subclasses represent a portion of the broader Class. The members of the Class and Subclasses are readily identifiable from Defendants’ business records and are so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable.

Adequacy

80. Plaintiffs Copeland, Spurgin, McGahey, Mills, Taylor, and Baker will fairly and adequately represent the interests of the Class. Jason Baker will fairly and adequately represent the Oklahoma Subclass; Brandon Mills will fairly and adequately represent the Arkansas Subclass; and Nathan Taylor will fairly and adequately represent the Missouri Subclass. Proposed Class Representatives are members of these classes and were subject to the same policies and practices as the other members of the Class. Proposed Class Representatives have retained competent and capable attorneys who are experienced trial lawyers with significant experience in complex and class action litigation. Proposed Class Representatives and their counsel are committed to prosecuting this action vigorously on behalf of the various classes and have the financial resources to do so. Neither Proposed Class Representatives nor their counsel have interests that are contrary to or that conflict with those of the proposed Class.

Commonality

81. There are numerous questions of law and fact common to the Class and the Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Missouri Subclasses. These questions include, but are not limited to, the following: (1) Whether the practices complained of herein are unlawful; (2) whether the practices alleged herein were willful; (3) whether the actions complained of herein constitute holding persons to involuntary servitude; and, if so, (4) whether Defendants C.A.A.I.R., Simmons Foods, and Simmons Pet Food conspired with Defendant Wilkerson to conduct the affairs of C.A.A.I.R. through a pattern of racketeering activity.

C. Propriety of Certification Under FRCP 23(b)(3)

Predominance

82. Questions of law and fact common to class members predominate over any questions affecting only individual members. The predominant issues in this litigation will be whether the common practices of the Defendants violate the RICO Act, the TVPRA and the laws of Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Missouri. Adjudication of these common issues in a single action has important and desirable advantages of judicial economy. Moreover, there are no unusual difficulties likely to be encountered in the management of this case as a class action.

Superiority

83. The class action mechanism is superior to any alternatives that might exist for the fair and efficient adjudication of these claims. Prosecution of this case as a class action will permit a large number of injured parties to pursue their common claims in a single forum, at the same time, which will promote efficiency, prevent duplication of evidence and efforts, and preserve judicial resources and the resources of the parties. A class action will avoid potentially inconsistent results in numerous individual trials or other judicial actions. Further, class treatment is the only realistic means by which Proposed Class Representatives and the Proposed Class Members can effectively litigate against large, well-represented corporate entities like Defendants. In the absence of a class action, the Defendants will be unjustly enriched by the retention of the fruits and benefits of their unlawful conduct. A multiplicity of repetitive individual actions would also place an enormous burden on the courts.
